

Std. V English Literature poem – louder than a clap of thunder Assignment

Assignment 2 of this poem

Write in your English note book after the meanings.

Answer the following questions:

Q3) Of all the sounds listed in the poem, which one do you think would be the loudest? Give reasons for your choice.

A3) I think of all the sounds listed in the poem, a cannon roaring would be the loudest because a cannon uses lots of gun powder to launch a projectile. Unlike the other sounds such as the ogre grumbling or the knight falling down a wall, this sound created by the explosives would be very loud.

Q4) What do you think makes this poem humorous?

A4) The poet uses imaginary as well as real life sounds and compares them with his father's snores, which makes it very funny. The way he exaggerates the sound makes this poem humorous.
